

ABOUT THE PROJECT

Stand-up conference rooms are a central feature in this prototype and custom parts manufacturer's renovated space, redesigned to accommodate several rapidly expanding departments. Angled full-height glass and clerestory walls with pivot doors add character to the space while maintaining a bright and open atmosphere. Write Away surfaces give engineers and software writers plenty of practical working space; monitors and videoconference equipment are easily repositioned on DIRTT surfaces; and DIRTT's supporting wall structure easily integrates tablets for a conference room booking system. The bold new design also includes the company's new branding, and the entire space can easily be adjusted or relocated as company needs evolve.
